What is the Hubert Bell Allen Scholarship?
The Hubert Bell Allen Scholarship is awarded to doctoral students in the UCSF School of Nursing whose studies focus on heart failure and its consequences.

The scholarship is named for Hubert Bell Allen, a graduate of UC Berkeley and the Stanford School of Business, who suffered from the debilitating effects of heart failure for the last fifteen years of his life. A man of boundless generosity and vision, he encouraged his children to follow their passion and impressed upon them that “You can lose everything in life except your education.”

What does the Hubert Bell Allen Scholarship provide?
Awardees will receive an award in the amount of $2,500 for one year. Awardees may reapply in subsequent years.

Who is eligible to apply?
Doctoral students in any department in the UCSF School of Nursing are eligible to apply. There are no citizenship requirements.

What are the awardee’s responsibilities?
Awardees must be full-time doctoral students in good standing pursuing studies related to heart failure and its consequences.
