CerviCusco Global Health Nursing Experience in Cusco, Peru
June 17-25, 2017

CerviCusco is a Peruvian non-profit organization created to address the extremely high rates of cervical cancer in rural Peru. CerviCusco comprehensively addresses cervical cancer prevention, screening, diagnosis and treatment, using modern and unique capabilities typically not seen in the developing world. CSF SON students will support CerviCusco women’s health preventative medicine campaigns by providing Pap smear screening and education to predominantly indigenous women, among whom cervical cancer is the leading cause of death for women 16 – 65 years old, and who are often marginalized from health care services.

• All UCSF current students are welcome to apply, including those graduating in June 2017. It is not required that you have women’s health experience, or speak Spanish to participate.

• 2 units towards the global health minor is available to those students who enroll in N460.

• There is no funding support for students participating in this activity. Please expect the following trip costs, apart from personal expenses such as food and entertainment:

  □ Airfare $1000 - $1200

  □ Participation fee $500 if paid by Dec. 31, 2016. Fee increases to $600 on Jan. 1, 2017

  □ Accommodation fee $35/night if paid by Dec. 31, 2016. Fee increases to $50/night on Jan. 1, 2017

  □ Application deadline January 20th, application decisions sent by February 3rd.

For more information, please contact faculty lead: Lisa Lommel, FHCN Clinical Professor, lisa.lommel@ucsf.edu